

Florim USA Gives Back

Florim USA made a commitment to fund annual scholarships in memory of its founder, Giovanni Lucchese, beginning in 2008. The scholarships are for students majoring in marketing, computer science and chemistry.

This year marked the 3rd year for the program. In April, Giancarlo Adani, Florim USA Vice President of Operations, awarded a computer science scholarship to Aaron Taylor, a chemistry scholarship to Cody Covington, and a marketing scholarship to Emmanuel Heath at Austin Peay State University in Clarksville, TN.

APSU President Tim Hall attended the award presentation, as did Tim Swaw, Florim USA director of human relations, and Teresa Carioti, Florim USA translator. Bruce Myers, chair of the APSU department of computer science and information technology, and the chair of the APSU department of chemistry, Robin Reed, also attended.

Thank you to everyone that attended and to all of the people that support Florim USA, for helping us make this possible.

Cody Covington, Dr. Robin Reed, Emmanuel Heath, Teresa Carioti, Tim Swaw, Giancarlo Adani, Aaron Taylor, Dr. Bruce Myers, APSU President Tim Hall and Dr. Carmen Reagan (Photo By Rollow Welch/APSU Public Relations and Ma)